Summer Courses and Academic Probation

Students on probation will be permitted to take a maximum of 2.0 courses during the summer sessions

Meeting the conditions of probation but not the conditions for progression

What happens if a student meets the conditions of probation (average of 60% in courses taken with no failures) but a cumulative average which does not meet the minimum average for progression?

Policy:

- 1. A student who meets the conditions of academic probation will have one additional year to raise their cumulative average to 60% or higher. During this period the student will continue to be considered to be on academic probation and the above policies, as well as the guidelines in the Calendar, will be in effect. This exception, and any others, will require a Dean's Waiver of Progression Requirements.
